EARLY MORNING

Marriage Of Mr. I. B. Richardson And Miss Lottie Compton—Two Other Weddings.

A pretty but quiet church wedding was that of Mr. I. B. Richardson to Miss Lottie Compton at Garfield Monday morning. The ceremony was performed at the Baptist church by Rev. E. B. English at 10 o'clock. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Richardson left for this city. At 10:30 o'clock they took the Exposition Limited train for St. Louis for a trip to the fair. They will return by the way of Chicago and Cincinnati, to Garfield, where they will reside.

The bride and groom are well known young people and of prominent families in their section of the county. The groom is engaged in the mercantile business at Garfield with his father, Mr. A. A. Richardson, while the bride is the daughter of M. P. Compton, a prosperous farmer of that section.

PAYNE-MOORMAN.

The wedding of Mr. P. R. Payne and Miss Irene Moorman is announced to take place in the Baptist church at Harrod on Tuesday, October 25, at 11 o'clock in the morning. The many friends of the contracting parties are cordially invited to witness the ceremony. Miss Moorman and Mr. Payne are of two of the county's most prominent families.

MARRIED SUNDAY.

Mr. Lonnie Taul and Miss Rena Duncan, well-known young people of the Tarboro neighborhood, were married Sunday. The groom is a son of W. B. Taul, while the bride is a daughter of Mrs. Rena Duncan.

has increased wonderfully. And now she is to have a first-class saw-mill and barrel factory, to be run by that veteran saw-mill man, R. M. Smith, who will remove his entire plant to that town and run it to its full capacity. This will be quite an addition to the business interests of Stephentown.

Red Foot tells us that he has a flock of 75 yellow bronze turkeys, and that he has to keep them guarded day and night to keep thieves from stealing them. He started out with 125 and they disappeared so fast that he put a man in the field with them.

Bellview Farm is the name of John Frakes' place, near Irvington. Mr. Frakes is making a handsome place of it, doing lots of hard work, which shows for itself. Mighty few better farmers in this county than John Frakes.

Bob McGoethlan is building a new addition to his home in Irvington. It is a beautiful place, well kept and nicely located.

Charlie Claycomb has just built a new home on his place near Webster. It shows up nicely from the railroad.

Uncle Billy Withers, one of the old landmarks of Hardinsburg, will be seventy-six years old next month. He came to this county in 1854 and has been a very active, hard working farmer all his life. In his palm days he was in the county could beat him raising corn and tobacco. He plowed his crop early, was the first man to plant corn and to set tobacco, and he always had good crops of both. A splendid good citizen, honest and upright, kindhearted and hospitable, and at the same time the late-trainer is always on the outside to his friends. He is as strong and active as he used to be, but he is still hale and hearty for a man of his years. He comes to court, enjoys the proceedings and meets his friends and loves to talk about the old times. He has been a life-long Democrat, casting his vote for Buchanan for President in 1856. His name has been on our list for twenty-seven years, and he renewed his subscription last week for the twenty-eighth year. With all our faults and short comings he has stood up as like the good man that he is. May he live to round out his century, and it's more than probable that he will, as his uncle lived to be nearly a hundred.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend thanks to the many friends and neighbors who assisted us in the illness of our wife and mother.

CHRISTIAN LIFE

Of Mrs. J. T. Patterson Ended On Last Thursday By Death After A Long Illness.

Mrs. Margaret Ann Patterson, wife of John T. Patterson, died last Thursday evening at 7:10 o'clock of heart trouble, after a long illness. She was seriously ill only a few days before death came.

Mrs. Patterson was born in Harrison county, Ind., about 1820. She was formerly Miss Willard and is survived by several brothers who reside in Harrison county. On December 21, 1857, she was married to John T. Patterson, who lived at Rome, Ind., but came from Butler, Pan. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson resided at Rome until 1883, when they came to this city to make their home. Two children were born to the union, one, Chas. Patterson, surviving.

Mrs. Patterson was a consistent and devoted member of the Baptist church for nearly fifty years, having united with the church while on a visit to Baltimore. While her health permitted she was a church worker and a very charitable woman.

The funeral was conducted from the family residence at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, Rev. P. L. King officiating. The interment was at the city cemetery.

M. F. BROWN WAS HERE.

"Captain" Millard F. Brown returned Friday to Cairo, Ill., after a week's business trip here and at Tobinsport, Ind. Mr. Brown was born and reared near Tobinsport but has spent most of his time at Cairo, where he is now employed as a carpenter by the Paducah Turbost company. He is well over several thousand dollars and could live comfortably for the rest of his life, as he is advanced in years, but prefers to remain at his trade of ship carpenter.

Mr. Brown lived here last year on a shantyboat until December, when he went to Cairo. An account of his eccentric life and his pet spider, "Frank," was given in the News about that time. Frank has since died and the old gentleman seems very much grieved over his loss. He used to pet and play with Frank as you or I would a pet dog or cat.

There have been a few developments in the Hopkinsville asylum affair since the account of the wholesale indictments returned by the grand jury was printed on another page.

Dr. Lackey, in a public statement made Friday, charged Superintendent M. M. HELP OF BANKS

Will Be Extended To Tobacco

Growers Who Are Striving

For Better Prices.

Louisville, Oct. 15.—The movement of the dark tobacco growers to hold their tobacco for better prices, and to combine for the purpose of forcing the market upward, has received an impetus which will go very far toward bringing about a realization of this hope. A meeting of the bankers of the section embraced in the Clarksville district has been held, at which it was agreed to advance money to the farmers on tobacco stored in warehouses at current rates of interest.

A committee of the farmers has accepted the offer of the bankers, and the plan that has been so laboriously wrought out will prove a success, after all. For, since the farmers have been rather hopeless on account of various things, one of which was the apparent close combination of the dealers to prevent the planter from making their combination successful. The tobacco will be priced and warehoused as soon as it can be done to the safety and the growers will then be in a position to await the coming of the tobacco men to them. The committee will see that there is no rash of sales, and no more tobacco will be put on the market than is demanded by the trade.

10 TO 3 ON ROOSEVELT.

From New York Sun Oct. 15.

The odds in Wall Street changed to 10 to 3 on Roosevelt yesterday. Several large sums were put up at odds of 10 to 3. Bunnell & Buchanan met $25,000 to $75,000. Roosevelt at $23,000 was bet with Williamson & Squire.

Bunnell & Buchanan also placed $600 to $2,000 on Parker with Sam Wood. They made one small bet of $210 to $300 on Higgins. Last night they were offering $10,000 to $40,000 on Roosevelt and $500 to $1,000 on Parker.

James Green bet $1,000 to $300 on Roosevelt. Another bet of $235 to $1,000 on Parker was placed with Foster & Lonnabury. T. A. McIntyre & Co. bet $1,000 to $300 on Roosevelt.

PICKED UP.

Chas. A. Timms has bought, up to this time, about 10,000 barrels of apples at 65 cents to 80 cents for the fill of the barrel. He has applied for a South. It is the only market now for Kentucky apples. Mr. Timms says it is a fine crop, especially where orchards were well sprayed. He says there are 12 the neighborhood of 5,000 barrels on the Rhodella flats yet unsold. The farmers refuse to take the price and want 81.

It developed in the court last week, Col. Murray springing the question, that order is an intoxicating beverage, and that the Court of Appeals has ruled, so order dealers in local option districts had better be careful.

All the indictments found at this term of court were thrown out at this term, for the reason that the clerk failed to enter them on record.

Mr. John P. Haswell, Sr., will be seventy years old next Monday, Oct. 24. Mr. Haswell is another old landmark of Hardinsburg, full of years and full of honors. He has been a citizen of that town for fifty-two years, actively engaged in business and is still a hard worker, and still in the same business house in which he opened up, over fifty years ago. A splendid record is his, a rare work which any of us should be proud of.

Mr. Haswell's first vote for president was for Fillmore and Johnson in 1856.

J. B. Duttsche, J. W. Claycomb, Finley and Harry Norton, of Webster, were in Louisville last week selling hogs. They struck a $5.50 market.

The business interests of Stephentown, we are glad to say, are looking up. The old town is coming out of her slumps and getting out of her sloughs. Since the new tank has started there and the old mill put on a new dress of machinery, business is progressing nicely. Before the end of the week six bricklayers will be at work, and the contractors expect to put up the walls by the end of this month.

Twenty-six Years Ago in Cloverport

From The Breckenridge News of October 23, 1878.

A most disastrous fire visited our town on the morning of the 30th inst. The wagon factory and blacksmith shop of Mr. J. L. Miller, the shingle, spoke and stave factory and cooper shop of Archie, Graham & Co., the wagon woodwork shop of Woods & Meyers, and the coopering establishment of J. W. Steele were all destroyed, entailing a loss upon the parties respectively, viz: J. L. Miller, $1,000; Archie, Graham & Co., $4,000; Woods & Meyers, $700 and J. W. Steele $800. None of the property was insured.

SAY MARRIAGE LISTS UNTIL DEATH PARTS.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—After prolonged discussion, lasting nearly a week, the report of the Committee on Marriage and Divorce was presented at the last meeting at the closing session of the Sixty-fifth Rock River Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at the Evanston-avenue church last night.

The report recommended a long courtship—long enough to test the quality of love. The importance of the permanence of the marriage tie was emphasized as having direct bearing on human development. The committee was unanimous in maintaining a marriage was contracted "until death doth part." The bond was decreed to be indissoluble and never to be entered into irreversibly or unadvisedly.

The proper conception of matrimony was declared to be the basis of a pure and anticipatory life, as well as the best deterrent from evil. The conference voted to join with other churches in an attempt to secure the enactment of uniform divorce laws in every State.

MR. ROOSEVELT ON SOUTHERN COURAGE.

(New York Sun.) To the editor of the Sun:—Sir: If my old time friend and fellow Mississippian, John S. Williams, is quoted correctly, he said in effect in his recent speech at Louisville, Ky., that Mr. Roosevelt had cast slur on Southern courage. I have not seen any such; but if Mr. Williams or any of your readers will permit Mr. Roosevelt's "Life of Thomas H. Benton," it will be very highest praise to the great and noble R. E. Lee, once my beloved commander, as a Confederate soldier, and give the very highest testimonial to the courage of the Confederate Army.

McDANIELS.

Wear your old overcoat; times are too hard to buy a new one.

Tobacco is very nearly all out in this part of the county—about half crop.

What was rather short here and corn will be very scarce by spring.

Bacon is "onskerpleit." Our sides rattle like dry hives for the want of a little of that "same extract." It has not been so scarce for years. Many persons have been without for some time.

Cannon, Rhodes & Mitchell are winding up their tobacco grading and are shipping it to New York. They say it beats the Louisville market one-third.

Financial matters, says the correspondent, are exceedingly dull and the outlook is bad and with short crops the prospect is that a hard year is before us.

Bowmer & Hamblen were in their fourth year of the "Original Cash System" and the result of this system had done very well.

J. W. Haynes & Co. were running the marble shop.

J. F. Sulzer & Bro. were advertising great bargains for the people.

G. H. Kurtz was advertising short horned cattle and had his herd at the Hardinsburg fair.

Sawyer Wallace & Co. of New York, were making liberal advances on consignments of tobacco through their agents, P. V. and H. W. Duncan.

Wheat was quoted on the Louisville market at $3.25 to $3.50 per bu. wheat 55 cents, and corn 44 cents per bushel. Beef, cattle, common, $1.50 and $1.75; choice butcher, short $3 and $3.75; Hogs $2.50 to $3.40.

Scott Allen was married to Miss Mattie Preston and W. W. Lewis to Miss Lullie Millett, of Owensboro.

Oelze & Reidel were proprietors of the Star Roller Mills, F. L. Roff, proprietor of the Cloverport Hotel and Miller & Miller the livery stable.

Dr. J. H. W. Francis comes back at the editor on caucuses and conventions and makes it lively for him.

Again, Mr. Roosevelt has placed as foremost of the Philippine officials, the Hon. Luke Wright, of Memphis, Tenn., who from the age of 14 to the end of the war between the States, was absolutely the most gallant young soldier in the Army of Tennessee.

I have seen him in battle at Murfreesboro and elsewhere, and I state without fear of successful contradiction, that Luke Wright, even as a mere boy, was "the bravest of the brave."

Surely no higher testimony has ever been given than this of Mr. Roosevelt of his opinion of Southern courage and character, and Luke Wright is not even a Republican, and his wife is the daughter of Admiral Raphael Semmes—than whom no Confederate sailor was ever braver or more beloved by his comrades.

I am grieved if John Sharp Williams, the son of as noble and true a Confederate soldier as ever fought and died for his cause, did say this of Mr. Roosevelt.

Henry S. Foote, Tishomingo, I. T., Oct. 7.

HERE IS A PRESCRIPTION FOR DIVORCES.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 13.—Here is a prescription guaranteed to cure divorce. It is presented by one who knows—by Mrs. Ashley Smith, who only Tuesday was divorced from her husband, the prominent West Side clubman and president of the Marvin Smith company.

This cure is prescribed solely for husbands. The formula follows: Never neglect a parting kiss when starting for business. This means you and not your wife.

Take your wife to the theater at least once a week.

When you buy theater tickets telephone her and give your wife ample time to dress.

Tell your wife at least once a day that you love her. Never compel her to force this confession from you. Say "I love you" of your own free will.

That's all there is to it; follow this formula and all will be happiness.

LEAVES DECATUR.

Horace Scott writes to have his paper changed from Decatur to Centralia, Ill. He says he is still traveling for the Standard Oil Co. and is making his headquarters at the latter place.

GREAT INCREASE

In Crime in Louisville Will Lead

To Greatest Revival in History of City.

The startling increase in crime in Louisville during the past year is a topic of conversation and comment throughout the State, as well as in the metropolis. The best citizens of that city realize that something must be done at once to check the lawlessness that exists there and plans for one of the greatest religious revivals the city has ever known, will be perfected at a meeting of the Louisville Ministerial Association on November 7.

The Rev. William Wistar Hamilton, the brilliant young Kentucky preacher, in a recent sermon at the McFerran Memorial church, Louisville, compared Louisville to Sodom, and said, in part: "Unchecked saloons, Sabbath desecration, dance halls, gambling rooms, brothels, unavenged murders and open defiance of the law have been thrown before the eyes of the people until they are becoming aroused."

"Our citizens are unnumbered, some political party or secret order hushes up the investigation, and in forty-eight hours we forget the name of the victim."

"Our people are beginning to realize the abominable wickedness. They are seeing the awful and certain retribution upon unjust gain, against wicked rule and the drink curse."

"We to him that buildeth a town with blood and establish a city by iniquity."

"He shall himself be the victim of his own wicked rule, and by making it unsafe for others lose his own life by lawlessness."

How to Cure Crops and Blemishes.

First wash the corn or cotton in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism Pain Balm is unequalled. For sale by Short & Haynes.

A CONVERSATION.

This is the conversation, substantially, that took place between the girl at the ribbon counter and the girl at the glove counter:

"Saybet!"

"Wot smatter now?"

"Xavria herdwt Lillidion sedda bonchord tellt isanite."

"Xodill say!"

"Seddy conlizer."

"Gway! Wotabout?"

"Howja spozin?"

Broke Into His House.

S. L. Quinn, of Cavendish, Vt., was robbed of his customary health by invasion of Chronic Consumption. When Dr. King's New Life Pills broke into his house, his trouble was arrested and now he is entirely cured. They're guaranteed to cure. 25c at Short & Haynes Drug Store.

WERE POISONED.

About a dozen of Owensboro's society women were poisoned last week by partaking of pickaninies in chicken salad at a social function, and several were only saved from death by hard work of physicians. Mrs. S. S. Watkins, formerly of this city, was among the number. All suffered greatly but are now out of danger.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 13, 1901. Dr. E. W. CHANCES FOR DEMOCRATIC SUCCESS.

With Combinations Of Bryan's 1900 Vote And Doubtful States Claim They'll Win.

FIGURES FROM LOUISVILLE.

The following review of the political situation is sent out from Democratic headquarters at Louisville. It says:—

There are 376 electoral votes and 239 are needed for a choice. It seems certain that Parker and Davis will carry all the states that went for Bryan in 1900 and we start with that premise.

Here is one combination that is possible, if not probable:—

Bryan's vote in 1900.....155
New York.....36
Maryland.....36
Indiana.....15
West Virginia.....6
New Jersey.....10
Connecticut.....6
Delaware.....3

Total.....239

Here is another that will bring victory and it is not as difficult as it may appear:—

Bryan's vote in 1900.....155
New York.....36
Maryland.....36
California.....9
Nebraska.....8
New Jersey.....10
Indiana.....15

Total.....241

The next combination includes a number of Western States that went for Bryan in 1896 and may be won over to the support of Parker and Davis:—

Bryan's vote in 1900.....155
New York.....36
Maryland.....36
South Dakota.....4
Washington.....4
Wyoming.....3
Nebraska.....8
West Virginia.....5
Indiana.....15

Total.....239

The concluding table proves that the Democratic ticket has a royal chance to win if only three of the doubtful States in the West follow the example of New Jersey and rally to the Democratic standard.

Bryan's vote in 1900.....155
New York.....36
New Jersey.....10
Maryland.....36

Total.....239

The thirty needed votes are to come from the following States, in every one of which the Democrats have more than a fighting chance:—

Indiana.....15
West Virginia.....5
Wisconsin.....12
Nebraska.....8
South Dakota.....4
Washington.....4
Wyoming.....3

Total.....52

Saves Two From Death.

"Our little daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and bronchitis," writes Mrs. W. K. Haviland of Amesbury, N. H., "until, when all other remedies failed, we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Our niece, who had Consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and to-day she is perfectly well." Desperate throat and lung diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infallible for Coughs and Colds. 50c and $1.00 bottles guaranteed by Short & Haynes. Trial bottles free.

LARGEST HOTEL.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Chicago is to have the largest hotel in the world. It will cost $10,000,000, be twenty-two stories high, and in size and magnificence will surpass any structure of the kind ever erected. The builders and owners will be a syndicate of Chicago and Eastern capitalists, headed by Otto Young.

The hotel will occupy property measuring 400 feet in length by 117 feet in depth in Michigan avenue, two blocks South of the Auditorium.

Steel construction will be used in building the new hotel, which will be the highest in Chicago in point of stories, with the exception of the Masonic Temple.

Do You Suffer With Rheumatism, Sore Joints, Neuralgic Pains in the Back and Side? If so to your druggist and get a bottle of Paracamp; use it as it directs.

If it fails to give you relief and do what we claim for it, your money will be cheerfully refunded. Paracamp opens the pores, induces sweating and relieves pain almost instantly.

The Distant Stars. Speaking roughly, we have reason from the data so far available, to believe that the stars of the Milky Way are situated at a distance between 100,000,000 and 200,000,000 times the distance from the sun. At distances less than this it seems likely that the stars are distributed through space with some approach to uniformity. We may state as a general conclusion indicated by several methods of making the estimate that nearly all the stars which we can see with our telescope are contained within a sphere not likely to be much more than 200,000,000 times the distance of the sun. Granting that all the stars we can see are contained within this limit, may there not be any number of stars without the limit which are invisible only because they are too far away to be seen?—Simon Newcomb in Harper's Magazine.

Too Easy Success. Success in literature after a writer's career is often a serious misfortune, writes Julius Chambers in the New York Herald. I distinctly recall a conversation with Frank R. Stockton regarding "The Lady or the Tiger?" that illustrates this point. "Never was I so near starvation since I began to write as after the publication of 'The Lady or the Tiger?'" said Mr. Stockton. "For nearly two years everything I offered for sale was sent back with the curt explanation that it did not compare with that story. 'The Lady or the Tiger?' was made a standard by a reviewer who was judged. Prior to its publication I had trouble in selling my matter, and that very story had been offered to every publisher in New York before it was accepted."

Women Speak First. When people speak at tables, the very fact that they are standing and facing their audiences having a tendency to give the bravest of women stage fright. Women orators have the advantage over men in knowing their attire will have much to do with keeping the attention of their audience. A pretty woman in a pretty gown, a fan, a muff, a veil, will hold the eyes of the listeners even if they do not care much for the speech.—What to Eat.

An Apt Retort. In the biography of Dr. Hawtree, a famous English schoolmaster, there is a description of his unkempt appearance, with a comment which has been greatly quoted. It is said that he was scolding for being late at morning lessons a boy, who replied that he had "No." "What I can do," said the boy, "is to scold the doctor. Yes," replied the boy, "but I won't."

Easy Politics. "When you first entered politics," said the young man who is looking for knowledge, "did you set out with the determination to win at any cost?"

"No," answered Senator Ford, "I set out with the determination to win at as little expense as possible."—Washington Star.

Mistakes Men Make. If it be true that a man who never makes mistakes never makes anything at all it is equally true that an orator who never says an indiscreet thing may be confidently reckoned on never to say anything at all worth hearing.—London World.

Candid. She (after accepting him)—Have you ever loved any other girl? He—Certainly. I can bring you half a dozen written testimonials if necessary.

One of the hardest things to find in this world is a friend who isn't hard up at the same time you are.—Chicago News.

WILL MARRY TODAY.

Robt. M. Triplett and Miss Maude Anderson, of Bewleyville, will be married today.

ACROSS COUNTRY.

The signs of the times point to an enormous increase of intelligent public opinion in health; to a new generation with purer, stronger blood and therefore more active, braver brains and body. No physical, robust, healthy person ever succumbed to grip, consumption, malaria or any other germ disease. But with a weakened system we all have to fight the germs of disease.

Our blood is often in a feeble condition and the growth of bacteria—the cause of disease—is undiminished. Our stomach is disordered and our liver is torpid—in either case our blood does not get the proper nourishment.

A torpid liver means a stagnation of the blood and an accumulation of poisons which furnishes a weak spot for bacteria to enter.

To enrich the blood and increase the red blood corpuscles, Dr. Pierce's golden medicine is called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, by increasing the red blood corpuscles and thereby feeding the nerves on food.

Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" also acts upon the digestion and assimilation of food, so that the body gets its proper nourishment from the products of digestion. Feed the lungs, stomach and heart on red blood and you have surely a healthy body which will throw off the germs of disease which cause consumption.

Get your natural way as you can. A medicine made entirely from botanical extracts and which does not irritate the system. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

OH, GUS, GUS!

Superintendent Board, of the Hopkinstown Asylum, admits that the commissioners, "with his approval," did give two cows to Senator Richardson for carrying a bill through the General Assembly. Oh, Gus, Gus! think that you were worth only two cows, both young heifers! And what did the commission mean? Couldn't they afford to give more of other people's property than that—Friday's Louisville Herald.

ATTENDANCE GROWS.

Ridgely Cayce, Superintendent of the Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis railroad, returned yesterday from St. Louis, where he spent several days attending the World's Fair and looking after the World's Fair business of the road. Mr. Cayce says that the attendance at the Fair is rapidly increasing as the end nears, and that every train going into St. Louis is crowded with passengers.—Friday's Louisville Herald.

BREAKS OWN RECORD.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 13.—Lon Dillon, world's champion trotting mare, has broken all work-out records for trotting horses by circling the course here in 2:01. Millard Saunders, her trainer, drove the mare. She was paced by a runner. Fractional time: First quarter, 30.4; half, 1:00; three quarters, 1:29; mile, 2:01. The former work-out record, 2:02, was held by Iron Dill, established at Cleveland September 29 of this year. No wind shields were used.

A Judicious Inquiry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult and if for a child they could not invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by Short & Haynes.

THE "YOUNG" OLD MAN.

Fairmont, W. Va., Oct. 12.—The second day of the Davis campaign through Maryland and West Virginia has been more intense and satisfactory in this campaign than the first. It has also added to the reputation of Mr. Davis as a "young" old man. He repeated his record of yesterday with a dozen speeches and added one more for good measure.

Can You Eat?

J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Christman, Tex., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach. I lost all strength and ran down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefited me, and after taking four bottles, I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures. THE SQUIRREL LAW.

The new squirrel law forbidding the killing of squirrels from September 1st to November 15th has caused considerable dissatisfaction. Complaints are coming in from every quarter of the county, and the people as a whole are bitterly opposed to it. The sportsmen menace are loud in their denunciation of the law, and the farmer who suffers from the depredations of the squirrels upon their corn crops strongly and emphatically denounce the measure.—Hartford Herald.

FLIRTING IN CHURCH.

A press dispatch from Chicago says: "Flirting can be carried on in church by a good advantage according to a statement issued by the Rev. M. B. Williams, chairman of the Committee on Sabbath Observance, of Rock River Conference, of the Methodist Episcopal church. "There is no reason why young person's should not cultivate each other's acquaintance from behind hymn books," declared Mr. Williams. "We are glad to have them come to church on any pretext. Flirting is as good an excuse as any." Frivolity during religious service, he said, was to be expected of Americans. But that good was accomplished even under these conditions, he declared, was indisputable. "The expectation of seeing a young woman home has brought many a boy to church for the first time," he said. "Amid the love-making there is a chance for religious influence to steal in."

MUST GUARD THEM.

"I'm going to have my registration certificate framed and hung in a safety vault," said a voter yesterday. He had just heard of the decision of Attorney General N. B. Hayes, who holds that the certificate of registration must be presented, but not surrendered to the election officers on election day. Voters must keep the certificates until the next registration is held. If they do not take this precaution they would not be allowed to vote in the event of a special election. Therefore, it is necessary that voters guard their certificates before, on and after election day on November 8.—Wednesday's Louisville Times.

A Love Letter.

J. W. THOMAS RAISED.

The Louisville and Evansville packet J. W. Thomas, which sank near Blue River Oct. 5, was raised last Wednesday and taken to Evansville, where she will be repaired. The Thomas struck part of an old raft which had been sunken for fifteen or twenty years, tearing out a section six feet wide and fifty feet long near the stern. The water flooded the hold and engine room, but Engineer John Thacker, with water up to his knees, remained at his post and started the pumps. Only his presence of mind in keeping the boilers full prevented an explosion.

One of Many.
H. A. Tiedale, of Summerton, S. C., suffered for twenty years with the Piles. Specialists were employed and many remedies used but relief and permanent good was found only in the use of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. This is only one of the many, many cures that have been effected by this wonderful remedy. In buying Witch Hazel Salve it is only necessary to see that you get the genuine DeWitt's, made by E. C. DeWitt & Co., in Chicago, and a cure is certain. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures all kinds of piles, cuts, burns, bruises, eczema, tetter, ringworm, skin diseases, etc. Sold by All Druggists.

REVIEW AND OUTLOOK.

Speaking with broad generalizations, there are the following developments on the bull side of the business situation:
The forced liquidation of 1903 is now completed.

The speculative strain on the credit resources of the country is removed.

The confidence and courage of the business community are restored.

The political uncertainties are nearly at an end, with the election of President Roosevelt practically assured.

Crops of money value probably $200,000,000 in excess of last year have been raised.

The production of gold the world over continues on an unequal scale, with a total of $350,000,000 probable.

The labor situation, while still one of antagonism between organized capital and labor, is in a much less acute state, and less a menace to business interests, resembling an armed truce between nations.

But there is one feature of the outlook which continues distinctly unfavorable. Prices of commodities keep on a high level. While Dun's index number for Oct. 1 is 98.394 against 103.615 on March 1, this reduction is by no means radical enough, and moreover prices now manifest a rising tendency, largely owing to the higher cost of meats and garden products. Dun's index number advanced from 97.842 on Sept. 1 to 98.394 on Oct. 1 and is one full point higher than it was a year ago.

This is not as it should be. Nevertheless, it is easily accounted for. In part it is attributable to the reduced value of gold, owing to its decreased cost and larger production. But there are other causes. There can be no doubt that the consumptive demand is increasing somewhat more rapidly than the supplies. This is a consequence of prosperity, which has cultivated more expensive habits of living, converted luxuries into necessities, and by concentrating the population in the big cities has produced higher rents.—Wall Street Journal.

FOOL TALK TO THE PEOPLE.

In a speech in Alabama, Congressman Heflin made a bitter attack on Booker T. Washington, and remarked that if somebody had thrown a bomb under the table when the educator was seated with President Roosevelt no harm would have been done the country.

What a fool remark!

Mr. Heflin should know this:

Not all the men in the country have sufficient reasoning power. Many of them are foreigners, who are not used to liberty, and know only the savage law of force. Some lack even average intelligence. What do such men think when they hear a speaker, a man of brains and position and power, an office holder, a person presumably of so much importance and wisdom that his words must have weight, advocate VIOLENCE—the use of deadly explosive to rid the world of one who has done the world no wrong, but has labored unceasingly to elevate his race?

If a Congressman can safely advocate assassination, even in the heat of anger, when words flow fast from heedless lips, is it fair to put the blame on the thick skulled one who follows his lead and commits a crime?

There is no place in America for assassins. There is no place in the hearts of loyal people—North or South—for men who advocate bullet or bomb to solve the problems that confront this country.

Nor have we reached such a plane of wisdom that it is safe to even suggest how wrongs may be committed.

There are unwise things done in every campaign. There are fools on the stump, as well as in the audiences. None of them show less evidences of intelligence than this man of bitter thoughts and words, who advocates WRONG because of his hatred for a race.—Cincinnati Post.

DAVE HENRY "speaks softly and carries a big stick" and is keeping the peace of Irvington very nicely, too.

THAT man is unfortunate and ill advised who devotes more time to fighting supposed opposition than he does to the accomplishment of all that is necessary to make him a good citizen.—Clarion.

EVERYBODY in Denver carried an ax for three days last week. The occasion was the three days festivities of the Woodmen of the World. They were there seven thousand strong and it was the most jubilant of all jubilees.

MILLIONS of feet of timber are now being shipped from Alabama for the construction of the Panama canal. Her coal, iron, cement and other articles are also being drawn on for its construction. Millions of dollars will be poured into the south from this great enterprise.

THE talents of gold, silver and brass used in the building of Solomon's temple amounted, according to the best estimates, to about $38,000,000,000. The jewels used are estimated at about the same enormous figure. The vessels of gold are worth about $2,500,000,000 and the vessels of silver $2,000,000,000. The purple vestments of the singers cost nearly $10,000,000, the trumpets about $1,000,000 and other musical instruments $800,000. There were 10,000 men engaged at Lebanon hewing timber; there were 70,000 bearers of burdens, 80,000 hewers of stone and 3,800 overseers. The cost of the temple with its entire equipment is estimated at $77,500,000,000.

BEST hogs on the Louisville market this week are bringing $5.20 and $5.25; choice to prime cattle $4.40 to $4.75; best sheep $2.75 to $3.25; best lambs $5 to $5.25. There is practically little change compared to last week.

Don't forget that there is a very important question to be submitted to the voters in this county at the coming election. It is a proposition whether or not stock shall run at large in this county. Stock laws are good things in other counties where they have tried them and we don't see why it should not be good for Breckenridge county. Down in Hancock county they have the law and it is proving very satisfactory. Farmers who opposed the law bitterly at the start now say they would not be without it. It is the progress of civilization, the survival of the fittest. Cities and towns have laws against stock running at large and why not the country districts. It is a good law and ought to carry by a large majority.

A Missouri paper gives to its readers the following good advice, which will be found as applicable here as in other towns: If you want a larger and better business town, go to work to make it so. Don't stop to find fault with others. Induce them to join the ranks of the progressive ones. When they get busy doing good they will forget to grumble. A town will be just what the people make it and not one whit more. All the kicking we can do won't add a single enterprise, but it might drive some away. Pave the streets, use more fresh paint. Houses will be built as they are needed, but quit knocking and kicking every enterprise in which business men engage. Remember the life of your town is in the keeping of your business men. "Knockers," as a general thing, don't labor themselves or give work to laborers. If we will aid each other and push straight ahead all will come that is due us.

THE Hopkinsville Asylum affair is bad enough. It matters not who is to blame. It is the outcome of politics, partisan politics of the worst sort. The man who is put at the head of a state institution like that, should leave his politics at home and know no man when it comes to the administration of its affairs. Dr. Board is a strong partisan. He believes to the victor belongs the spoils and he runs things that way. He did it here at his home and you couldn't expect anything better of him down at Hopkinsville. He was as much of a political boss as ever Boss Croker was. The man that didn't do his way he cut his head off politically, and did it quick, too. If Dr. Lackey had dropped into his Board's way and recognized him as boss, which he was, there would have been no trouble. But Dr. Lackey, it seems, was somewhat of a boss himself and refused to recognize Boss Milt, hence the trouble. It is very unfortunate for the state, for the great Democratic party of Kentucky and more unfortunate for the poor inmates. Can we never get above party?

THE supply of preachers in the East and Middle West is becoming serious, says the Denver News. All over the world the number of young men who are being educated for the ministry is growing smaller. Some startling figures are given. "In the eleven Baptist colleges east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio there were precisely twenty-six men studying for the ministry who graduated in the last senior classes. Out of 1,200 students in Harvard, Yale, Columbia and Princeton, graduating this year, who have indicated their life work, only twenty-eight of all denominations are reported to enter the ministry. The News goes on to say that while the number of persons entering the ministry who are graduates is falling off, there is no dearth of ministers, because the profession is amply supplied by young men who take "short-cuts" into the pulpit. This method, it says, while receiving the endorsement of some, is deplored by the more thoughtful. The latter assert that the general intelligence and mental vigor of the age demands the fullest possible equipment on the part of those who enter the sacred calling. The big city churches are encountering serious difficulty in securing suitable men to fill their pulpits when they become vacant. The demands made upon a pastor of a large city church in this age are greater than ever before. The work of the church has broadened. The number of the churches has greatly increased, while the members are so absorbed in the affairs of this strenuous age as to leave little time or energy in which to do church work. So the pastor must be a man of action and possess a good deal of executive ability in order to conduct the affairs of his church successfully. And, at the same time, the demand upon him as a preacher has increased rather than diminished, especially in the scope of the subjects discussed. So the finding of a suitable minister for the vacant pulpit is a very difficult task. So we see from this that there is plenty of room at the top for the good preacher. For the man of intellectual and spiritual force, with ideas and energy to carry them out and make himself heard and felt.

How the Famous Surgeon Velpeau Treated a Free Patient.

The famous surgeon Velpeau was visited one day at his house during the consultation hour by a marquis renowned for his closeness. Velpeau informed the marquis that an operation was urgent and that the fee would amount to $100. At this the marquis made a very face and left. A fortnight later Dr. Velpeau, while making his rounds in the Hospital de la Charite, found the patient attracted by a face that seemed familiar to him. In answer to his inquiry it was stated that the patient was a footman of a nobleman in the Faubourg St. Germain. The surgeon found that his case resembled in every particular the somewhat unusual one for which the marquis had consulted him a fortnight previously. He refrained, however, from making any comments.

Three weeks after the operation, when the patient was about to be discharged, Dr. Velpeau called him aside and exclaimed: "Monseigneur, I am extremely flattered and pleased to have been able to cure you. There is, however, a small formality with which you will have to comply before I can sign your exit—that is, you will have to sign a check for 1,000 francs in behalf of the public charity bureau of your metropolitan district. The patient's face became livid. "You can do what you like about it," continued the doctor, "but if you refuse all Paris will know tomorrow that the Marquis de P. advised the discharge of a footman in order to secure free treatment at this hospital and to usurp the place which belongs by right to a pauper." Of course the marquis paid.

Cobweb Pills.

Andrew Wilson, the well known naturalist and writer, in commenting on Culpepper's "Complete Method," published in 1652, shows how this enabled a man to "cure himself, being sick, for a temporary charge, with such things only as grow in England, they being most fit for English bodies." "John Wesley practiced music," Wilson continues. "His system was not strictly limited to vegetable simples. Wesley prescribed boiled carrots as an exclusive diet for a fortnight for the cure of asthma and recommended baldheaded people to wash their vacant scalps with a decoction of horseradish. For bleeding from the lungs or stomach the juice of nettles is ordered and for an acute case of indigestion six grains of calomel."

BLACKSTONE TO DEATH.

Fearful Punishment That Obtained Under Old English Law.

Under the old English law if a prisoner stood mute and failed to plead to the indictment a jury was impaneled to determine whether his conduct came from obstinacy or from a natural impediment. According to Blackstone, if the prisoner was found to be obstinately mute and the indictment was for high treason it was settled that his silence was equivalent to a conviction and that judgment and execution should follow. This same rule applied to petty larceny and misdemeanors, but upon appeal or indictments for other felonies or petit treason, according to the ancient law, the prisoner was to be convicted; but, because of his obstinacy, he received "the terrible sentence of penance or peine" and was pressed to death.

Blackstone thus describes this punishment: "That the prisoner be remanded to the prison from whence he came and put in a low, dark chamber, and there be laid on his back on the bare floor, naked unless decency forbids; that there be placed upon his body as great a weight of iron as he could bear and more, and that he have sustenance only on the first day three morsels of the worst bread, and on the second day three draughts of standing water that should be nearest the prison door, and in this situation this should be alternately his daily diet till he died or (as anciently the judgment ran) till he answered."

During the trials for witchcraft in New England a respectable citizen being so accused, knowing that by reason of the excitement of the times a plea of not guilty and trial would result in a conviction with confiscation of property, and the same judgment would follow a plea of guilty, refused to plead, thereby preventing a conviction and enabling his family to retain his property. The court ordered that he be pressed because of his obstinacy. The order was carried out and the victim died.—Chicago News.

WISDOM OF ANIMALS.

The Age of Apuleius—A Dog Actor. Wise Dogs and Elephants.

Apuleius says that in the spring fetes of Isis, the forerunners of the Roman carnival, he saw a monkey wear a hat and a Phrygian tunic. But monkeys do not seem to have been popular in Rome. The cleverest of all the animal performers were of course the dogs, and the showman had the ingenious idea of making a dog act a part in a comedy. The effects of a drug were tried on him, the plot turning on the suspicion that the dog was poisoned. The fact, it was only a narcotic. The dog took the piece of bread dipped in the liquid, swallowed it and began to reel and stagger till he finally fell on the ground.

At the right moment he began to move very slightly as if waking out of a deep sleep. Then he raised his head and looked around him, and ran joyously to the proper person.

The remark that animals do not grow wiser with age is contradicted by the history of dogs, and especially in ancient times, of making the young ones cross a ford first. The officer who superintended the embarkation of the elephants sent from India to Abyssinia by the Emperor Trajan's campaign tells how one old elephant volunteered to drive all the others on board. His services were invaluable, but when they had all embarked and he was invited to follow them he firmly declined and had to be left on shore.

I myself have noticed the acquired caution of the older dogs of Constantinople, which left the younger craves I threw them, while the young ones ate them ravenously. A Greek native told me that this was because Europeans used to throw the craves of a young Turk beggar who shared his scanty fare with them.—Contemporary Review.

Licking the Penail.

One of the foremost lawyers in New York City licks the point of his pen-cil whenever about to write with it. The other day it was indelible, and his tongue was a sight to behold. His friends were alarmed, thinking he had met with an accident. "My boy does it," he said. "I did it when I was a boy, and my father and grandfather did it. And nearly every man of any consequence in the law has done it and it did it. Licking the point of the pencil is one of the choicest of human weaknesses."—New York Press.

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it. In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

A STORY OF GEROME.

The Master Painter, the New Student and a Practical Joke.

A number of years ago a poverty stricken painter, since famous and prosperous, went to Paris from a country village and entered the studio of Gerome at the Ecole des Beaux Arts.

The new student's first day chance to be "criticism day," and the older students, finding themselves cheated out of their customary boisterous hazing by this circumstance, resolved to have their fun in an indirect fashion.

Accordingly they took the novice aside and impressed upon him in the most friendly and confidential way imaginable that he was under the obligation of giving a tip to the professor when he criticised his work. Incredulous at first, the fellow youth let him be convinced and promised to do the proper thing. His means were so small that he awaited his turn with an ill concealed anxiety which those in the class noticed keenly. When his turn came he convulsed the room by slipping a half franc piece into the professor's hand.

Gerome was too familiar with the practical jokes of the Beaux Arts not to comprehend the situation and had much ado to keep his countenance. He answered, however, in a blunt outburst with the gruffness which he assumed so admirably.

"What does this mean? You'll do well to come to me some fine morning and straighten this thing out."

The bewildered pupil interpreted the admonition literally and presented himself at Gerome's private studio two days later. Gerome received him like a father, led him on to confess his destitution and to unburden himself of his hopes and fears, gave him good counsel and returned to him his half franc piece in the form of a twenty franc gold piece.

The Seven Reins in Disease.

Mention is made by Professor Hilton in his lectures on "Recurrent Pain" of the seven varieties of the four reins in the treatment of disease—namely, mental rest, bodily rest, a combination of those two, as in that most perfect state of rest called sleep, and organic rest, as evidenced in the avoidance of exertion in cardiac disease, or talking in affection of the respiratory tract, and in fasting, so far as possible, the act of deglutition in affection of the alimentary tract by the substitution of enemata; local rest, as secured by change in the position of body or limb, the use of pillows, cushions, etc.; dietetic rest, by avoiding the too frequent use of food and drink; lastly, medicinal rest, in the relief of spasm by inhalations and the not too frequent administration of medicine to the prejudice of nutrients or stimulants. Professor Hilton lays it down as a rule that by a consideration of the manner in which these principles of rest may be best applied in each special case of disease are relief and comfort to be brought to the sufferer and diseased action arrested.—London Lancet.

Discomforts in Venice.

Venice is not a desirable place of residence in summer for the ordinary mortal. The moisture in the air, caused by the steady prevalence of the sirocco, takes the starch, so to speak, out of men's minds as much as out of their collars, and it is only the artistic, the lazy and the unemployed who can rightly enjoy the summer in Venice.

Travelling in air, in sky and sea are of a nature to provide perpetual delight and occupation to the eye and hand of the painter, while the abundance and variety of the fruits to be had will equally content his meager appetite, for fruit in Venice is beautiful and almost oriental in its quality and quantity. But there are drawbacks to be set against the lotus eating kind of existence, and not the least of these is that of hot nights, when sleep is almost an unknown quantity, and is driven away by one subtle foe after another, the mosquito being the fiercest and most aggressive.

Water Couldn't Help Them Out.

A well known Baltimore society man was once spending a few days with his wife at Adams City, and in the evening of his arrival he discovered that he could not read the menu, as he had left his glasses in his room, and his eyes were useless without them. When he passed it to his wife she exclaimed that she was in the same predicament. At a loss to know what to do, the gentleman called the waiter to him and, pointing to the menu, said:

"Read that to me and I will give you a dollar."

"Quick as a flash the waiter replied: 'Scuse me, boss, but I ain't had much ejection myself'—Philadelphia Ledger.

Webster on Debt.

Once when Daniel Webster was riding along a New England road in a stagecoach, so the story runs, he was annoyed by the jolting and poked his head out of the window to yell at the driver: "Hey! Can't you drive a little slower?" "No," responded the coachman, "the horses are running away, sir."

"Run 'em into a fence corner," advised Daniel. "Can't, sir," said the driver reluctantly and despairingly. "They've got the bit between their teeth, sir."

"Well, run them into debt then," thundered Daniel. "That'll stop anything!"

A Poacher's Hues.

A poacher, writing in the Country Gentleman of London, says: "When I left home at night to go poaching I always left an end of a candle burning in a saucer of water in my bedroom. This was arranged so that it would splutter out about 10 o'clock, just as if I had extinguished it and retired for the night. This I did because I discovered that the keepers were given to watching my house for signs of my leaving, and it was a long time before they found that a candle could go out without human agency."

The Yorkshireman's Cost of Arms.

A York man to submit to you the Yorkshireman's cost of arms as it was given to me many years ago by a Yorkshireman. It runs thus: A flea, a fly, a magpie and a fitch of bacon—a flea, because he will bite his best friend; a fly, because he will drink from anybody's cup; a magpie, because he will chatter with anybody; a fitch of bacon, because he is no good until he is hung.—London Spectator.

She Knew.

A certain old lady always knew everything before anybody else. One day her niece saw her passing the house and ran out to meet her. "Do come in, aunt," she begged, "and help us. We are making charades."

"Certainly I will," answered the old lady. "I knew you were making them because I smelled them as I came along."

S. W. Bassett, of Union Star, left Sunday for the St. Louis fair.

Song of The Ohio.

(Written for The Herald by Elias Bent.)

I sing as softly as a mother croons

Her drowsy babe to sleep at eventide.

On quiet nights, when warring winds are still,

I woo the stars down from their azure home,

To sink their golden footprints in my depths;

Mirror the silver pathway to the moon,

All paved with gems the errant Pleiad lost

That night she wandered from her sisters' pale:

And by a subtle alchemy distill

In my alembic fragrant, cool moon-dew

To diamond Earth's flower-woven robe.

I offer up my body to the sun

In sacrifice perpetual and glad,

And furnish recreation in that act

To myriads of brief life-holding things.

At other times I sing strains from that song,

Before whose awfulness mankind doth realize

How infinite his insignificance.

Shaking my tawny mane, I gather all

My congregated might of swollen strength

And wreak torrential wrath upon the land.

I smite the puny bulwarks with which men

Have insolently sought to stem my course;

I snatch away Earth's flaunted panoply

And grave my signature upon her breast.

CONDENSED STORIES

OF THE DAY.

A Georgia statesman says that which he was in the shop of an optician in Atlanta he once heard an amusing conversation between the proprietor of the establishment and an aged darkey, who was just leaving the place with a pair of new spectacles.

As the old chap neared the door his eye lighted upon a most extraordinary looking instrument conspicuously placed upon a counter. The venerable negro paused for several moments to gaze into open mouthed wonder at this thing, the like of which he had never seen before. After a long struggle with his curiosity he was vanquished. Turning to the optician he said:

"What is an optometrometer?"

"That is an optometrometer," replied the optician, in his gravest manner.

"Sho!" muttered the old man to himself as he backed out of the door, his eyes still fastened upon the curious looking thing on the counter. "Sho, dat's what I was afeard it was!"—Youth's Companion.

The stoical bravery of Russian soldiers was well illustrated by the story of a captain who was unsuccessfully shelling a battery at the siege of Warsaw. Field Marshal Paskievitch galloped up to the captain and sternly asked why his firing did not have some effect. The captain replied that the shells did not ignite. The marshal scoffed that theory and threatened to degrade the officer. The captain picked up one of the shells, ignited the fuse, and holding it in the palm of his hand, said to the marshal: "See for yourself, sir." The marshal, holding his arms across his breast, stood looking at the smoking shell. It was a solemn moment. Both men stood motionless, awaiting the result. Finally the fuse burned out and the captain threw the shell to the ground.

"It's true," remarked the marshal, turning away to command his troops, to silence the enemy's fire. In the evening, instead of punishment, the captain received the cross of the Order of St. Vladimir.

Same Old Circus.

The three elephants in Gentry Brothers' parade this morning looked like three mad holes that had been bored in a circus and were playing. The trombone player in the parade this morning nearly worked himself to death. The real humorist is a monkey. We never look at a monkey without smiling. However melancholy a monkey feels, he always looks happy. In every circus band you find one player who insists on having music, although he has played the same piece a thousand times, and knows it. Usually he is a player who can't read music; a player secured in a country town. During the parade today a horse had his team of two young mules tied to a pole, and sat in the wagon holding the lines. When the elephants came along four other men were necessary to keep the mules from running away. Every man who drives a wagon in a circus parade, however, seems to be a player, although he can't do it more wages. The dirtiest faced young man we ever saw.

Remedy For Burns.

For a dry burn, cotton oil. Shake the bottle, and pour a soft cloth with the mixture and lay over the burn. Then cover closely with cotton batting or flannel to keep out every bit of air and secure the whole with a light bandage. Burns may also be treated by a thick application of any bland oil, vaseline, sweet oil, castor oil, butter, cold cream or any fat not rancid, excepting glycerin, which is too irritating. Soft powders may also be dusted on—flour, laundry or corn starch. For a burn by scald or steam apply a dressing of saturated soda.

Moon Phases.

The phases of the moon may be explained by the fact that the moon is a dark spherical body which shines only by reflected light. The new moon, popularly so called, is seen only when the sky is sufficiently dark to present a complete outline of the disk. This illumination is due to the light which comes first from the sun is reflected to the earth and back to the moon and thence to the earth. What we really see is the earth light shining on the moon.

Keeping in Touch With Oneself.

It's good to have money and the good, too, to check up once in awhile and make sure you haven't lost the things that money won't buy. When a fellow's got what he set out for, this world he should go off into the woods for a few weeks now and then to make sure he's still a man and not a plug hat and a frock coat and a wad of bills.—Saturday Evening Post.

Wedding Of W. A. Gnan and Mrs. Lily Fagen, Who Are Known Here, At Owensboro.

William A. Gnan, of Louisville, and Mrs. Lily Fagen, proprietress of the Kain-Tuck-De Tar Springs, were married at Owensboro on Tuesday evening of last week. The wedding will be news of a surprising and interesting nature to people here.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. H. Crossfield, pastor of the Christian church, at his study in the church. Every precaution possible was taken to keep the wedding from becoming public and it was with difficulty that any thing could be learned concerning the affair. The identity of two witnesses to the affair is a mystery and after the ceremony was performed none of the parties concerned could be found. However, it was learned here Friday that Mr. Gnan was in Louisville.

During part of the past summer Mr. Gnan was a guest at the Tar Springs. He went away several weeks ago and Mrs. Fagen went to Owensboro to see the Elks' fair and remained there until the wedding. She is a daughter of Mrs. Estelle Terrell, of Chicago, who bought the Tar Springs last summer, for the purpose of operating them, and gave to them the name of the Kain-Tuck-De Tar Springs. Mrs. Fagen, assisted by Oecola Van Arsdel, her brother, has managed the Springs for her mother.

Mr. Gnan's first wife died last year. She was many years his senior. They spent part of the summer of 1902 in this city, boarding at the Duncan House while here, and attracted much attention on account of the discrepancy in their ages and her reputed great wealth, which was said to have consisted mostly of fine diamonds.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by Short & Haynes.

"Poor Pay, Good Tenant."

"It isn't always the tenant who pays his rent on the first of the month who is most desirable," said a household-er of the day. "Your prompt tenant is likely to hold you his debtor for that virtue and feel perfectly free to ask for numerous improvements. My best paying property is leased to a man who is always two or three months behind in his rent. Of course I lose the interest on my money for that time, but that is all. In the three years in which he has rented of me he has not had the nerve to ask me even to put a nail in the wall for him. I haven't done it either. In one instance he had some plumbing done at his own expense when he should have charged it to me. I am constantly afraid that he will get so prosperous some day and want to pay me on time. Just as sure as he does I will have to spend several hundred dollars on the house."—New York Tribune.

Flirting in Japan.

A Japanese woman dips—as far as she knows the meaning of the word—as her sleeves and fan and not with her eyes and smiles. By the different movements of the ends of her kimono sleeves she manages to convey to her admirer all sorts of unspoken messages, and by the opening and shutting of her fan to the right or to the left she can reject or accept the most weighty offers. Her code signaling with her sleeves and fan is quite an item of her social education.

French soldiers' Handkerchiefs.

The cotton handkerchiefs provided for French soldiers have printed upon them a number of sanitary precepts to be observed on the march and during a campaign and are further decorated with medallions containing pictures of officers of all grades, the different uniforms being so distinctly portrayed that a French private can tell at a glance to what grade any officer he may see belongs.

Well She Might.

An old German historian of Tubingen describes an attack by the French in 1674 during which eight persons were killed by the explosion of a mine. A soldier's wife was thrown the distance of an acre. She was not hurt, the chronicler adds, quality, but she screamed so terribly and was in a very bad humor."

After the Quarrel.

She—There is just one little bit of millinery that I desire more. He (crossly)—You needn't say any more. I won't buy it for you. She—Don't be afraid. Her code signaling the bill for it. It's a widow's bonnet.

A Sure Way.

Mabel—I wish I knew some way to make George forget me, for I can never marry him. Henry—Have you tried lending him money?—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A very wise man once said that when he began to feel too important he got a map of the universe and tried to find himself on it.

Scars, Mississippi, Oct. 17, 1902.

I have been afflicted greatly with indigestion, constipation, also a severe liver trouble, with loss of appetite. Could not rest at night; in fact, had no energy to work or even walk around. I felt like I was packing a heavy load, and was easily exhausted, until I took Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup, which helped me almost from the first dose. When I had taken one or two bottles I felt like a different man, and I knew that it was due entirely to your medicine. I used in all three bottles, and consider myself cured. I feel like a new man. I feel like I am a different man, and I feel strong and refreshed on arising in the morning.

Books In Series.

While it is certainly a pretty sight to see a long row of books in a neat and uniform binding, like soldiers on parade, there is a distinct loss of individuality. As you glance over your books upon their shelves it is pleasant to recognize them from their outward dress. They keep themselves better in mind if each one is not exactly like its neighbors. You are even likely to forget what you have if you cannot know them from across the room.

We often go to the bookstore looking simply for "something to read," and then it is an advantage to know each book by its outward dress. Of course this does not apply so strongly to the works of a single author. These belong in a uniform, and you know what is among them.—St. Nicholas.

Soldier's Sense of Humor.

A high naval official, now dead, often cited as an example of ghastly humor an incident that befell a young woman during the civil war.

"She was good and kind," he would say, "and during the war she visited the hospitals daily, distributing fruits and flowers and tracts."

"One morning on her rounds a young soldier, immediately after she had passed him, set up a loud laugh."

"She turned and looked at him in surprise. His seemed a pitiful case. Nothing of him but his face was visible on the little white bed, and this young face was sadly thin and pale. Nevertheless he laughed like one possessed. His mirth resounded through the grewsome room."

"The visitor returned to him."

"Will you tell me what amuses you?" she said.

"Why, ma'am," said he, "here you have given me a tract on the art of dancing when I've got both legs shot off."—Baltimore Herald.

Careful of Her Nose.

Many interesting stories of courtiers and favorites at the old French court are found in the memoirs of the Marquise de Crequy. She says that on certain solemn occasions kings of France would call at intervals to their robes, but ermine became scarce, and she writes: "The anointing of Louis XV. was retarded some years for want of this fur for the court mantle, and at the coronation of Louis XIV. they actually used catkins." Superbly elegant was the Duchesse de la Ferte, who generally was carried around under a canopy. The marquise goes into ecstasies concerning this particular duchesse, whose eyes "had the most disdainful expression I ever saw, though they had a slight cast in them. But her supreme elegance can be appreciated when it is known 'she never blew her nose for fear of spoiling her Grecois count, but dabbed it at intervals with a small square of cambric.'"

A Benign Franklin's Wife.

Benjamin Franklin's wife is taken from the diary of Daniel Fisher, who was Franklin's secretary for a short time. "She sat on the floor at a neighbor's, she assumed the air of extraordinary freedom and great humility, lamented heavily the misfortunes of those who are unhappily infected with a too tender or benevolent disposition, said she believed all the world claimed the privilege of troubling her puppy—she usually calls Mr. Franklin—with a 'cat's paw' and she never distinguished a general history of many such wretches and their impertinent applications." He mentions "the turbulence and jealousy and pride of her disposition," and the violence of her invectives. Pointing to Franklin's son one day, she exclaimed, "There goes the greatest villain up on earth!"

I never wonder to see men wicked, but I often wonder to see them not ashamed.—Swift.

THE FILIPINOS.

If our opponents came into power and attempted to carry out their promises to the Filipinos by giving them independence, and withdrawing American control from the islands, the result would be frightful calamity to the Filipinos themselves and in its larger aspect would amount to an international crime. Anarchy would follow; and the most violent anarchic forces would be directed partly against the civil government, partly against all forms of religions and educational civilization. Bloody conflicts would inevitably ensue in the archipelago, and just as inevitably the islands would become the prey of the first power which in its own selfish interest took up the case we had cravenly abandoned.—Roosevelt's Letter of Acceptance.

SPOTTSVILLE WRECK

ONE OF DISASTERS.

The Commonweal gave a list of twenty-six appalling disasters from Oct. 17, 1903, to Sept. 26, 1904. The wreck on the Henderson Route at Spottsville on August 8, in which four lives were lost, is included in the list. The worst disasters are the two railroad wrecks, one at Eden, Col., on Aug. 7, when 94 were killed and three injured, and one at Newmarket, Tenn., on Sept. 10, when 63 were killed and 150 injured.

The seven great wrecks of American history, according to the Commonweal, are as follows:

Court of Appeals Affirms Decision in Case Montgomery Against Weed Chief.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 13.—In affirming a judgment of the Hardin Circuit Court in the contested election case of James Montgomery against Weed S. Chelf, involving the office of Circuit Judge of the Ninth Judicial district, the Court of Appeals today held that Sections 1561 and 1564 of the Kentucky Statutes clearly recognize that the governing committee of a political party has the authority to prescribe conditions to be complied with by candidates desiring to be voted for in a primary election of the party, the payment of expenses as entrance fee to secure place on the ballot. It also ruled that the members of the committee must be present at the meeting calling a primary or convention, but the proxy of one of four members of a committee would not invalidate the action taken, and that while the committee required to be sworn before acting, the failure to do so would not invalidate a primary election shown to have been fairly held.

The action grew out of the holding of a primary election in the county of the Ninth Judicial District on September 29, 1902, to select the Democratic nominee for Circuit Judge. The candidates were Weed S. Chelf, T. B. McBeath and the appellant, James Montgomery. The two first named paid the assessment fixed by the party committee of the district, and appellant, failing to pay, did not get his name on the ballot. Chelf was nominated, elected and inducted into office and the appellant sued to recover it on the ground that the nomination of Chelf was illegal and void. The case was heard before a special judge and the petition of Montgomery dismissed. This is upheld.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers. They filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick, or untimely heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle by mail. Write to Dr. Kilmor, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmor & Co., Birmingham, N. Y.

Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, and the address, Birmingham, N. Y., on every bottle.

ASYLUM INDICTMENTS.

Supt. Milton Board, of Hardinsburg, And Commissioners up For Malfeasance in Office.

BOARD INDICTMENT IS DISMISSED.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 13.—On motion of the commonwealth's attorney the indictments against Superintendent Board and Commissioners Bush and Smith of the Western Kentucky asylum for the insane, in connection with the presentation of two heifers to State Senator Richardson for aiding in getting a $75,000 appropriation for the institution were dismissed this afternoon. The other cases will be prosecuted. The asylum records showed that Bush and Smith were not present at the board meeting when the gift was authorized and presented to the statutes the superintendent has no authority in the disposition of asylum property. The indicted commissioners claim that the cows were given the senator after the adjournment of the legislature and present on hearing on his action in supporting the measure.

Publishes Card.
Louisville, Ky., Oct. 13.—A special to the Courier-Journal from Hopkinsville says: "Dr. Board publishes a formal card today, in which he makes public the charges against Dr. Lackey. He accuses him of constant disregard of asylum rules, neglect of official duty, untruthfulness and self-confessed grafting. It is believed that Dr. Stephens, former first assistant to Dr. Lackey, will succeed to his position. The official minutes of the meeting of the board of directors show that the cows were given to Gus Richardson and they also show that the board also agreed to pay the expressage on them. He accepted two of the older cows, but the two younger ones were killed on the train. Dr. Board declares that the cows and heifers were presented to Richardson as the bouquet was presented to the legislature after the act making the appropriation was passed and not before for the purpose of influencing his conduct."

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 13.—The grand jury this afternoon returned indictments against Supt. Milton Board, and nearly all of the Commissioners and board officials of the Western Kentucky Asylum for the insane, for malfeasance in office. The bills were secured by the efforts of Dr. Walter A. Lackey, former first assistant physician, who resigned his position last week after the superintendent and Board of Commissioners had fled charges against him with the Governor and requested his removal. Dr. Lackey is, himself, indicted for assault and battery. Dr. Lackey mailed to the Governor one day last week a statement containing charges against Supt. Board and a number of the commissioners. He charged the head of the institution with padding requisitions and drawing pay for patients who were paroled, and in one instance of keeping the name of a dead patient on the lists for several months. He accused commissioners and officers of the board of selling supplies to or having contracts with the institution, in violation of the statutes.

Before The Grand Jury.

Dr. Lackey then carried the matter before the grand jury, and, after an investigation, in which numerous witnesses were examined, including Supt. Board and commissioners, the indictments were found. The superintendent and all of the commissioners, except W. T. Tandy, who was not a member of the board, are indicted for giving two heifers to Senator Gus W. Richardson, of Meade county. Senator Richardson was a member of the joint legislative committee which recommended the $75,000 appropriation for building the new wings at the asylum. The other indictments were as follows:

Commissioner C. H. Bush, for accepting a fee in defending the suit of G. Y. Williamson, administrator, against the asylum.

Commissioner John B. Chilton, for holding a position as farm superintendent on salary.

Commissioner M. W. Johnson, for selling beef cattle.

Commissioner P. M. Quarles, for selling hay, straw, etc.

Treasurer L. H. Davis, for putting in stone foundations of two wings from which he derived profit.

Secretary J. C. Buckner, for furnishing coal under contract.

Walter A. Lackey, for committing assault and battery on the person of Ssgt. Bourland, a lunatic, and patent at the institution while said Lackey was acting as superintendent of the asylum.

Ball was fixed in each case at $500 except Dr. Lackey's, which is $100.

Supt. Board Talks.

Superintendent Board states that the board, with his approval, did give the cows to Senator Richardson as testimony of its appreciation of his good services in connection with the asylum appropriation for which he labored zealously. According to the statement of the Superintendent to the Courier-Journal representative, he filed with the Governor after the filing of the petition by himself and the commissioners requesting Dr. Lackey's removal, separate charges, accusing the first assistant of incompetency, neglect of duty, assenting himself from the asylum, mischief-making, grafting, cruelty and misrepresentation. The Charge of the board, the Superintendent says, were that Dr. Lackey was a disturbing element and that he was negligent and cruel to patients.

Dr. Lackey and his family have removed from the asylum to Pembroke. Dr. Lackey claims he was badly treated by Superintendent Board and the commissioners, and denies their charges against him.

Judge Bush, one of the commissioners indicted, says the custom has always obtained at the institution of attorneys on the board being employed in legal business and denies that his acceptance of a fee was ground for indictment. He says he was paid for his services in the Williamson case a $25,000 damage suit, which the board of directors authorized. The asylum won. Judge Bush says he was not present at the board meeting which is said to have authorized the present to Senator Richardson.

Hines Has The Papers.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 13.—Soon after Dr. Walter Lackey sent in his resignation to Gov. Beckham as first assistant physician at the Western Asylum for the insane, which was requested of him, he sent a letter filing charges against the Board of Officials of the institution, which was received by the Governor last Monday. Gov. Beckham at once turned the papers over to State Inspector Hines.

Says It's Spite Work.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 13.—Lucien E. Davis, treasurer of the Hopkinsville Asylum board, who is among those indicted at Hopkinsville yesterday, is in the city a member of the Knights of Pythias committee that is inspecting sites for the K. of P. Widows and Orphans' Home. He said to-day that the indictment was the result of spite work and malice on the part of a physician removed for cruelty. He says he did take the contract for the stone work but that stone masonry is his business and has been for years and that he was the lowest bidder and has no fear of results.

A TITLED DANDY.
At the close of 84 years in 1773 Lord Villiers appeared, according to a word of that day, in a coat of "pale purple velvet, turned up with lemon color" and "contrived all over with 8's of pearl as big as peas, and in all the spaces little medallions in beaten gold—real solid—in various figures of Cupids and the like." In that day the dandies ranged and powdered and carried nosegays as big as cabbage. Walpole records an occasion in the house of commons when, in haste, the adjournment, some of the exquisites edged against their own opinions, "because the house was very hot and the young members thought it would melt their rouge and wither their nosegays."

Curious Ways of Crabs.
Certain species of crabs cover themselves with seaweed in order to deceive their foes. One crab was seen by the naturalist Esig in 1878 to pluck off zoophytes, those plantlike animal colonies which grow on shells and stones, and to fix them on the spines and hairs of its shell. A still deeper romance of defensive tactics is to be found in the case of certain hermit crabs. They live in the castoff shells of whelks and crawl about, house on back. One claw is bigger than the other, and this is an adaptive feature, for when the crab retires into its house the bigger claw is tucked across the mouth of the shell to bar the way against a possible intruder. More curious still is the habit of one species which toils along with a sea anemone fixed to its shell, like Sidiad carrying the Old Man of the Sea. Great care is taken of this anemone. It is fed by the crab, and if the latter has to seek a new shell by reason of its growth he tenderly shifts his tentacles off the old abode and places him on the new one.

Dean Hole's Wit.
On one occasion Dean Hole, the well known English clergyman, with Mrs. Hole, landed at Dover, much exhausted, after a rough crossing of the English channel. While waiting for the train the dean pored over the railway regulations. "Ah," he said, addressing the station inspector, "it's one consolation after such a crossing and this tiresome wait that we go back at half price." "I don't understand, sir," was the official's reply. "There is no special reduction." "Oh, yes, there is," said the dean. "I've just been reading all your notices, and you state that you take returned empties at much reduced rate." Once when the dean was paying whilst for threepenny points he appeared to be very well provided with threepenny bits. "Ah," his opponent remarked, "have you the offertory with you?" "What, sir," the dean answered, "do you recognize your miserable contributions?"
